

'HOW TO TEACH INCLUSIVE JOURNALISM'

What are we talking about when we're talking about inclusive journalism?

EJTA organises a two days' inspiration seminar on 7-8 November 2022 on 'How to Teach Inclusive Journalism'. We'll discuss the results of a questionnaire (data of EJTA schools and journalism schools from Central Eastern Europe about teaching inclusive journalism), discover possible formats for inclusive journalism training (based on good practices of all participants and the pilot project 'Invisible Cities' <https://invisible-cities.eu/>) and produce recommendations.

The final outcome can be a sustainable project creating a new curriculum unit and facilitating cross-border collaboration.

The seminar is funded by the Evens Foundation and Adam Mickiewicz University and there is no conference fee to be paid. The organizers also cover for coffee, lunch and dinner.

We do expect your university (college) to use Erasmus+ funding Staff Training for your travel and accommodation. Responsible person to contact about Erasmus documents at Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań: erasmus@amu.edu.pl

There are limited positions (40), so unfortunately we need to follow the principle 'first come, first served'.

In case of too many applications, we might need to consider allowing only one person per institution. So make sure you book cancelable flights / train tickets. We'll contact you by 21 October the latest to confirm your registration and the number of persons you can send. At that moment we'll also give you all information on accommodation and the detailed program. For the accommodation you'll need to confirm a pre-booked hotel room by 24 October.

PROGRAMME IN A NUTSHELL

7/11, 1-6 pm:	panel on inclusive journalism and case studies in Poland / keynote speaker Milica Pestic from MDI / pilot 'Invisible Cities'
8/11, morning:	outcomes questionnaire / break-out brainstorm sessions
8/11, afternoon:	interview exercise / sample case 'How to Report on Refugees and Migrants' / conclusions and recommendations

WHEN?

7 and 8 November 2022

WHERE?

Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań, Poland

HOW?

If you want to participate, please send a mail BEFORE 17 OCTOBER to director@ejta.eu and hanna.zielinska@evensfoundation.be, clearly mentioning the name of your institution.

There is (limited) funding for staff from Journalism schools that do not fall under Erasmus+ or need financial help. Please contact EJTA director Nadia Vissers: director@ejta.eu

WHO?

All EJTA schools are welcome to participate, with an extra focus on CEE countries which might not yet be an EJTA member. We would like them to consider possible membership.

Evens
Foundation

ADAM MICKIEWICZ
UNIVERSITY
POZNAŃ